SHIP SENDS S.O.S.; LINER RUSHES TO RESCUE

New York, March 31 (A.P.).—The Independent Wireless Telegraph Co.'s station at East Moriches, N. Y., today picked up an S.O.S. call from the British freighter Lieham, from Newport News to Ipswich, Eng., saying she was in distress 600 miles southeast of Halifax. The Mauretania is rushing to her assistance.

BULLS TRY TO CHECK SELLING WAVES

Bulls tried desperately to check the selling waves that for three weeks have engulfed the active issues in New York Stock Exchange trading and today met with partial success. A good rally appeared in initial dealings. Then the bears came back vigorously and heavy liquidation was again rampant. Many of the larger pools and professional bulls were said to be in difficult straits. The closing saw a fair rally.

ANOTHER BARBARIAN DAY
A Wall Street. Agitated gamblers threw overboard 1,864,600 shares of stock yesterday. Wins, quiet, gentlemen picked up barabara.

APPEARING FOR ARCHBISHOP
Curley of Baltimore, and stating that he represented 50,000 Catholics, Charles W. Galt, with Morgan J. O'Brien of the Catholic Club of New York City; the Rev. Michael J. They urged that the United States break with Mexico.

4 Curley Appointees Resign at City Hall

NICHOLS AXE TO SWING ON OTHERS AS TERMS EXPIRE WITHIN MONTH

The resignation of four Curley appointees today gave rise to speculation in City Hall as to what action Mayor Nichols will take on the expiration tomorrow of the terms of a number of department heads.

The Curley appointees whose resignations were accepted by the mayor, all appointed to the municipal employment bureau by former Mayor Curley, were: Louis M. Gould, former director of the bureau, who has been acting as an assistant secretary at a salary of $1,000; Daniel J. Leonard, clerk, $2,000; Harold J. Gill, clerk, $2,000; and Thomas J. Duffey, assistant director, $1,500.

BOYS CONFESS MANY SCHOOL ROBBERIES

Two boys, alleged by the police to be members of a gang that broke into more than sixty Boston school buildings and other schoolhouses in Cambridge, stealing hundreds of dollars in small amounts from the desks of teachers, were arrested today in the South End.

They pleaded guilty in the juvenile session of South Boston district court and were held in $1,000 each for a hearing next Saturday. The boys are Harry Morgan, 14, of Mount street, Neponset, and John Pratt, 14, of Harrison avenue, South End. The boys were arrested by Patrolman Stankovich of South Boston as they were waiting in line for a motion picture theatre to open its doors.

According to the police, they admitted the breaks and thefts while waiting to be arraigned in South Boston District Court.

Patrolman Stankovich, who was assigned to look into breaks in South Boston schools, found a trail that led to the accused youths after three days. A third boy is being sought, and police believe the three are responsible for most of the thefts in school houses which have been reported almost daily to police headquarters over a period of more than three months.

We haven't got any way of telling how many schools we got into, and how many know how many.

THIS BABY LEADS CHARMED LIFE

This is little Joseph Hogan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hogan, No. 85 Elley street, Cambridge, and the wreckage of the paramotor out of which he was spilled unscathed when an automobile interrupted his airing. The scared driver of the car raced the young man to a hospital, but the doctors pronounced the baby none the worse for his perilous experience.

STEEL TAKES LEAD IN SHARP STOCK RALLY

New York, March 31.—A rally that seemed sensational after three weeks of steady declining started on the New York Stock Exchange today, led by U. S. Steel and Hudson Motors.

Numerous industries rallied two to five points under the impetus of short covering. U. S. Steel was up 10 points.

LAWYERS MAKE LAST MOVE TOMORROW IN BEHALF OF CHAPMAN

Hartford, Ct., March 31 (I.N.S.).—The final move to prevent the hanging of Gerald Chapman will be started tomorrow. Ray M. Wiley of Springfield, Mass., will apply to a judge of the Superior Court for a writ of coram nobis and an injunction against the hanging on the ground that the death sentence was illegal because it was imposed before President Coolidge commuted Chapman's Federal sentence for the "Viper" trial.

John Givelli, chief of Chapman's counsel, was to go to the State Prison in Wethersfield this afternoon with a chauffeur from Long Island named John Callahan. Just what Callahan will attempt to show has not been determined.

CLOUD OVER LATEST BROWNING ROMANCE

New York, March 31 (I.N.S.).—A shadow was cast today over the latest romance of Edward Browning, millionaire "Underworld Man," who attracted much attention several months ago when he adopted Mary Spas.

WRITES WIFE; TRIES TO DIE; DISAPPEARS

Baltimore, Md., March 31.—After writing fervent farewell love notes to his wife, to be delivered after his death, Dr. R. Sidney Isaac of Springfield, Mass., attempted suicide only to be brought back to life at the Mercy Hospital.

3 STORMS SWEEPING FAST TOWARD BOSTON

The eastern edge of the storm which swept the Midwest with heavy snow, causing loss of life and property, will probably reach Boston today, bringing a warm rain. Mild temperature tomorrow is promised by the weather man.

As the Western storm spread toward the East a second disturbance was moving up the Atlantic coast, causing storm warnings to be displayed from Jacksonville, Fla., to Boston.

most every day since then. The wealthy rector intends to announce their engagement when she is sixteen in June, friends said.

Mary Eliza is reported to be due in New York today from Denver, Col., because of the death of her sister, who was hurt here last week. Browning adopted Mary, believing her to be sixteen, but the adoption was annulled when it was discovered Mary was twenty-one.

The romance has been in progress but a few weeks. They met at a dance, the strikingly lovely young girl, and the aged millionaire. He was charmed with her youth and her beauty, with her innocent little face, with her dainty ways. He sought an introduction to her. He asked if he might call. She said he might. He called and she was there, smiling, and bade her good night. He phoned her the next day, and asked if he might see her. She said she would be delighted. He came to his shiny big Rolls Royce, bringing flowers and candy.

He called the next day and the next, and in a short time, say friends, he had received marriage—not now, but later, he said. He said, that she was not a child. But he realized also that she would grow. And he wanted to be in a position to help her.

As he was, some day, to be her husband, it wasn't wrong, she felt, to take little gifts from him. For instance, she bought herself a pocketbook one day. And Browning took it from her to examine it, giving it back with $100 in it.

Then he gave her $100 more to buy clothes with, and Frances and her mother went shopping.

He is going to give her a magnificent diamond, too, when she is 18. It will serve a double purpose, that of a birthday gift and an engagement present.

Browning has his own name for Frances. He calls her "Peaches." The name has something to do with her golden hair, something to do with the softness of her skin, something to do with the delicate color of her cheeks. And she calls him "Daddy."

over 5 points. Hudson gained 44, but soon lost all its gain, while Steel sold over a point below its earlier high.

Barnes-Robinson was up over 5, as were also U. S. Steel, Iron Pipe and The Pont. Woodruff was up over 4.

In the early rally big blocks of stock changed hands as the market began to rally. In the afternoon, stocks changed hands in "strains" ranging from 2,000 to 11,000 shares in the first hour.

In the second hour some issues were selling new highs and others establishing new lows.

Stocks Mostly Higher in Boston; Some Weak Spots

Stocks were mostly higher in Boston trading today. Motorcar was up 8 and General Motors up 8 1/2. While General Electric added 3 at 39 1/2.

Marion Oil advanced 2 1/2 at 2 1/2, and Consolidated Gas stepped up 1/2 at 2 1/2. U. S. Rubber was up 1 1/2 at 2 1/2.

Weak spots appeared. Eastern Mass. Ry. at 27 established a new record low. H. Nelson advanced 1/2 at 20. Eastern Steamship was again roseational, off 1/2 at 24 1/2.

COMBUSTIBLE POLISH BURNS MAY BE FATAL

Central Falls, R. I., March 31.—Chandler a woman store with combustible polish will probably cost the life of Bama Rahak, 19, of No. 118 Elysee street, burned about the face, hands and chest when the flaming liquid exploded. Her elderly mother, Mrs. Kahalaonah Rahak, sustained severe burns about the arms and hands attempting to assist her daughter.

"PLANT WIZARD" BURBANK'S ILLNESS AMONG HIS PETS, ALARMS WORLD

Luther Burbank is shown above in one of his hothouses, with his recent development, the Telegraph plant, featured by long leaves at the ends of tentacles 8 to 10 feet

Another photo of the "Plant Wizard" in his hothouse, taken after a recent illness, not so serious as the present one. This pose is familiar to many visitors.

Luther Burbank, the "Plant Wizard," as he was when in the flush of health. This photo is a remarkable character study of the noted scientist's face, and among the most recent of his pictures taken.

The world's greatest horticulturist is here shown indulging in one of his favorite indoor sports. From the inception of the radio, Mr. Burbank has been a most enthusiastic fan.

SLAYS BEAUTY AND SELF IN N. Y. TAXI

New York, March 30 (I.N.S.)—A pretty young woman, shot to death in a taxi cab early today by a man who then killed himself, was identified today as Mrs. Christine Hagan, twenty-two, daughter of a prominent family near New Haven.

Mrs. Antonio Prohler, proprietor of a rooming house at No. 313 East Eighty-first street, said the victim had lived with her for three years, up to seven months ago, and had been living apart from her husband, but a reconciliation had been effected and they had gone away together.

The cause of the double tragedy was a quarrel, according to notes found on the dead body, showing he had carefully planned the murder and suicide.

The young man was believed to be Peter Fairchild, twenty-five, of 1109 Manhattan avenue, Brooklyn. A note written within the past twenty-four hours read:

"I'm standing on the threshold of eternity at last. As recollections of the future as I have been of the past."

Another missive, dated March 29, unsigned, said:

"Tragic day for us, Christine and me. I bought a spring coat and went back for her yesterday."

Within a memorandum book in the dead man's pocket was this scribbled message:

"Christine, you are the breakage of my name and my success."

Edward J. Stricker, chauffeur of the taxi cab, said he picked up the pair at Twenty-second street and Columbus avenue after they had stepped from another taxi and were arguing excitedly.

The girl directed Stricker to drive through Central Park. After riding for half an hour, Stricker said, the girl tapped on the glass and told him to drive to a house on East Twenty-second street.

As Stricker was crossing this street at Third avenue he heard two shots from inside the cab. He saw the girl slump down on the seat of the cab, with the man's head resting on her shoulder. Both were dead.

Lewis, Del., March 31 (A.P.)—Fifteen men were rescued today from the sinking dredge Clarence by the seagoing tug Susan A. Moran in a northeast gale off the New Jersey coast. The dredge was in tow of the tug on its way to Delaware City, Del., for work in the Delaware and Chesapeake Canal. High wind and heavy seas swamped the dredge, and when it began to sink the Moran took the crew off.

GERMANY SEES BOOM BY U. S. PAYMENTS

Berlin, March 31 (A.P.)—The German Press gives prominent dispatches from Washington describing the plan for the settlement of war claims between the United States and Germany, in a bill placed before Congress Monday by Rep. Mills of New York.

The papers assert that under this plan German business and industry would receive a new impetus through the restitution by the United States of about 1,000,000,000 gold marks in cash and goods.

Uncle Sam was a real bargain hunter when President Grant purchased Alaska. It has returned more than 6,000 per cent.

Alaska's purchase added 581,000 square miles of territory to Uncle Sam's possession.

Boston's highest structure cost the government $2,500,000 to build.

Each year the gold and silver output has added profit to Uncle Sam's return on the purchase price for Alaska.

The seal yield is one of the best assets of Alaska. Their sale helps the United States to the extent of $100,000 annually.

SOS CALL, THEN SILENCE

New York, March 31.—An SOS call was received by Naval Communications early today from a steamship signing S. S. Blair. No details were given and attempts to get further information were unavailing. The only vessel of the name is a freighter owned by the American Export Lines which left Havana, Spain, for New York March 28, due here April 6. The owners said they had been out of touch with her for several days.

ALASKA PAYING UNCLE SAM BIG RETURN

A regular little bargain hunter was Uncle Sam when General Grant purchased Alaska in 1867. In this year the nation observes the fifty-ninth anniversary of the purchase of Alaska. More than 4,000 per cent has returned to Uncle Sam for the $7,200,000 he paid for the far northwest corner of the continent, bought from Russia in March, 1867, adding 581,000 square miles of territory to United States possessions. The purchase price was but a mere $4,700,000 more than it cost to build the Custom House in Boston, and for his $7,200,000 outlay, Uncle Sam has received back more than $40,000,000 in cash, the gold and silver output alone more than $10,000,000 a year, a very good business man, Uncle Sam of half a century ago.

FIRE DESTROYS FARMHOUSES

Leominster, March 31.—The fire which started in the main farm building owned by Giuseppe Bottasi in Crawford street, North Leominster, today, destroyed the structure and several outbuildings, as well as a stock of farming implements. The loss is estimated at $10,000. The cause is unknown. The buildings were unoccupied. Bottasi and his family live in the city proper during the winter months. Neighbors hearing the crackling of the flames in the burning buildings about 3 o'clock notified the Leominster fire department by telephone. Although the firemen arrived quickly on the scene the buildings resumed a roaring furnace. The fire fighters were hampered in their work of fighting the spectacular blaze because the buildings were located about a half-mile from the fire hydrants. They were compelled to lay three lines of hose and to pump water from the Nashua River to the fire.

FIRE IN FRANCE EATS UP HAVILAND CHINA

Lincoln, France, March 31.—A fire which started in the Haviland Porcelain Factory last night was still raging today. The damage is reaching several million francs, and about 800 workers will be made idle. The cause of the fire is not known. The burning factory kept part of the city awake all night.

FLATIRON BLOW KILLS WIFE, POLICE CHARGE

New York, March 31.—John Kozlowski was arrested in Brooklyn charged with the murder of his wife, Nellie Kozlowski, 40. According to the police, Mrs. Kozlowski was hit on the head with a flatiron, dying a short time after.

DR. DONLAN, HOSPITAL WAR FIGURE, DEAD

Dr. Charles W. Donlan of Malden, former superintendent of the Long Island Hospital and Alms House, whose removal in Mayor Andrew J. Peters' administration caused a sensation, is dead in Malden, Pa., according to despatches from that city today.

Dr. Donlan, who was also former superintendent of the Chalmers Street Hospital, Lowell, and the Glen Rock Hospital, Malden, had been in Florida since the first of the year. On June 15, 1918, Dr. Donlan was dismissed as head of the Long Island Hospital by the then trustees of the Boston Infirmary. He refused to leave the island and finally in November, 1919, secured a court hearing which ordered his reinstatement on the ground that the charges against him were unfounded and not brought in good faith.

The physicians then brought suit for $10,000, alleging conspiracy against the trustees of the hospital. In 1923 he was again removed, this time by the Boston City Council, after eight charges had been preferred against him by the then Penitentiary Commission. Thomas C. O'Brien, the charges consisted principally of being absent without leave and neglect of duty. Dr. Donlan took his case to the Supreme Court, which failed to sustain his exceptions.

In December of 1923, when connected with the Glen Rock Hospital, Malden, Dr. Donlan was named defendant in a suit for $1,000 brought by Mrs. A. T. St. Francis, who claimed the amount was due her as salary.

POLL TAX ADOPTED BY FRENCH CHAMBER

Paris, March 31.—(A.P.)—The Chamber of Deputies today adopted a poll tax provision of Finance Minister Poincaré's bill for the balancing of the budget after it had been amended to exempt a great many taxpayers and reduce the rates for many others. M. Poincaré declared the government opposed amendments reducing the tax yield. The chamber, however, was free to vote as it pleased, with the understanding that if it had not at the end of the session the revenue it demanded the government would resign.

WOULD MOVE KITCHEN TO FRONT OF HOUSE

Chicago, March 31.—(A.P.)—Revolutionary ideas in house building are being presented at a clinic for home builders here this week. Why, for instance, put the kitchen in the back of the house? Earl H. Reed, Jr., of Armour Technical Institute, says it may just be well to do it. "Live on your whole lot," he says.

Reed's plan is to move the kitchen to the front of the house, and let the living room and dining room face the back yard. "Then make a garden of that back yard—have a lawn, with trees and shrubbery, a playground for yourself and children."

MODERN GIRL IS MOST BEAUTIFUL BECAUSE SHE IS HEIRESS OF BEAUTY OF ALL THE AGES

The beauty of Cleopatra turned Mary Astor to his downfall.

Madame Recamier, beauty of the Empire period, whose salon was crowded with her admirers.

Dolly Madison, famous not only for her beauty, but also for her wit and political finesse.

Mary Anderson, great actress, whose beauty is still remembered.

Lillian Russell, who preserved her palatial home in her old age.

Lillian Langtry, "the Jersey Lily," who was the toast of the Victorian era.

The Countess of Warwick, a fine symbol of beauty of modern womanhood.

Mrs. Walter Tull, Jr., nee Patti Simkins, who proves the Boston girl of today is the most beautiful in history.

2 DORCHESTER YOUTHS STILL SUSPECTS

Demand for the capture and punishment of the trio of thugs that murdered Patrolman Frank J. Comeau, overseas veteran, attached to Fleet Corner station, was as strong today as it was a week ago tonight when he was shot to death without warning in front of the patrol car in Dickens street.

After a record roundup of suspects, numbering more than a score, but two remained locked up today at Station 11. They are Dorchester youths who gave themselves up upon their return from Connecticut. The fact that they left their homes on the night of the murder and did not return until Sunday and that they tally in a general way in age and appearance with two of the three youths seen fleeing from the murder scene, has caused the police to be slow about liberating them.

LOCAL APPEAL FOR COMEAU FAMILY

A special appeal to citizens of Dorchester and to business men of that community to aid the fund being collected for the widow and children of Frank J. Comeau, slain policeman of the Fleet Corner division, was made today by state Representative Bernard P. Casey, chairman of the general committee. The appreciation of the people of such devotion to duty as Comseau showed should be expressed in terms of financial aid to his dependents. Casey declared, as that other officers may know their loved ones will be cared for if they have to give their lives for the public good.

Asbury Park Veteran Refuses to Run Away From Trouble

Asbury Park, N. J., March 31 (A.P.)—Dr. Edwin Fye Turner, 82, sat in a rocker in his home today, stroked his long white whiskers and related all efforts of friends to persuade him to go to their home and get away from the publicity surrounding his recent sensational arrest.

He issued a challenge to Deputy Sheriff Foster Black of Binghamton, N. Y., the 32-year-old minion of the law, who succeeded in having the aged physician locked in jail over night because of an alleged connection with the theft of a horse in Binghamton 40 years ago.

"An old soldier sticks to the fight and I'll see this scrap through," said Dr. Turner. "I'll stand here against my enemy, just as I have stood on the field of honor, and when my foe is crushed, I'll still be here."

The aged physician revealed today he had fought four duels in his strenuous life.

BIG OLD-TIMERS
NIGHT PLANNED
BY WOMEN

By JAMES WALSH.

The annual Old-Timers' Night of the Ladies of St. Finbar, Cork Women's Association, will be celebrated in Hibernian Building, Duane street, on Tuesday, April 13. One of the features will be the presentation of the comedy, "Why Married Men Get Bald." Members of the association will make up the cast.

Many other attractions are being planned by the committee in charge. Another feature will be playing by John W. Womans, a famous old-time fiddler from County Cork.

The committee in charge includes Katherine C. Keohane, Nellie MacDermott, Nora Hayes, Lillian Donovan, Julia Donovan, Alice McDonnell, Catherine Donovan, Kitty O'Donoghue, Kitty McCarthy, Nora Buckley, Julia Kennedy and Mary M. Monahan.

The Ladies of St. Finbar also will give a white party in conjunction with the Knights of St. Finbar, Cork Men's Association, in Hibernian Building, on April 22. Proceeds will be donated to St. Columba's Foreign Missions. The annual May party of the association will be given on May 20.

The Rev. George Maguire, of Ireland, who is passing some time in Boston while on a tour of the country in the interest of the creation of a music foundation in Ireland, by means of which promising young singers may receive professional attention, will give a music recital on Easter Sunday night in Hibernian Hall, Dudley street. Fr. Maguire is a student of the science of voice production. He and John McCorrack were boy sopranos in the same church choir at Summerhill College, Mayo. It is said that in three competitions at that period, Fr. Maguire won against the now famous Irish tenor, Fr. Maguire will be accompanied at the piano by Miss Catherine MacDonnell. He was educated in Paris, and renewed his vocal studies in London on the advice of a military physician to counteract the effects of a respiratory condition resulting from war service. He served as a chaplain in the World War.

Richard J. Dwyer, who was chief marshal of the civic division of the Boston Bay parade in South Boston, is in receipt of many favorable comments on the showing of the Irish organizations in the procession. Special mention has been made of the many beautiful and interesting floats which the various Irish organizations displayed. A meeting of the executive committee of the Associated American Irish Societies of Massachusetts will be held in Hibernian Building, Roxbury, shortly after Easter.

The County Antrim Association will have its regular meeting in Aquilary Hall, Hibernian Building, on Thursday evening at 8. The County Cork Association will meet next Sunday.

The County Galway Association will have its next regular meeting in Hibernian Hall, Dudley street, on Easter Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

TRIPLE DEATH

WHITTEMORE

Police Also Hope to Recover
$830,000 of New York
Gang's Loot

New York, March 31 (A.P.)—The sweetheart of Anthony Faldino, member of the Whittemore gang of jewel thieves, was ordered before the Queens County Grand Jury today to request a story she told District Attorney Banton.

Faldino and William Unkelbach, another gangster, testified before the body and indictment against two "tensas" were expected today. Police not only expect to arrest the "tensas" but to recover a large portion of the $830,000 loot.

Reports that Jacob Kraemer, "brains" of the gang, and his brother, Louis, had confessed proved unfounded, and Banton announced their trial on the robbery charges would be rushed to court.

Richard Reese Whittemore, in all probability, will face a murder trial in Buffalo for killing two guests in an armored car holding them. Banton has informed Governor Smith that he will waive New York city's claim either to Erie County or the State of Maryland, which also seeks Whittemore on a charge of murder.

Erie County authorities are expected to be given first chance to send Whittemore to the electric chair, however, as Banton explained that once released to Maryland he could not be brought back to New York for trial.

Mrs. Margaret Whittemore must stand trial on a robbery charge, the confession of her husband, by which he hoped to obtain her freedom, being termed a "pack of lies" by District Attorney Banton.

DOZEN KILLED
BY SPRING
BLIZZARD

Chicago, March 31 (A.P.)—Spring has turned traitor to a large area of the country. Storms of blizzards proportions which have raged through the Middle West and Southwest, have blanketed large territories with snow. The weather predictions are for more snow and continued cold, with general rains on the eastern seaboard.

The late March disturbance, a freakish combination of snow, hail, rain and gales, was directly or indirectly responsible for more than a dozen deaths, with injury to three persons and destroyed property valued at more than $1,000,000.

Two persons were killed near Liberty, Tex., when high winds, accompanied by heavy rain, cut a swath through the oil fields. A woman met death near Crosby, Tex., when her home was blown down, while a fourth Texas death occurred at Beaumont.

Four were killed near Racine, Wis., when the driver of an automobile, blinded by a snow storm, ran into a train; four men met death in Chicago street accidents; casualties at Detroit numbered two during a blizz storm. A plantation overseer at St. Francisville, La., died of injuries when his home was demolished.

MD-WEEK MOTORISTS

By JOHN J. McNEVIN, Automobile Editor

ADVANTAGES FOR TOURISTS IN NEW ENGLAND SHOWN

Advantages which New England offers the tourist were called to the attention of the American Automobile Association by Russell A. Harmon of Worcester, when he addressed a three-day congress of secretaries and managers of that organization in Washington. The congress was called to formulate a program to meet the motoring problems of the coming season.

New England motor clubs affiliated with the A. A. A. were represented by a large delegation. The group joined with Mr. Harmon in advocating his program of development for New England. Among the prominent New England motor club officials who attended the congress were:

Colonel Howard P. Dunham, president of the Automobile Club of Hartford, Ct., and Arthur Pfitz, secretary, N. E. T. Association, president of the Automobile Club of Holyoke, Mass.; A. R. Thackeray, secretary of the Greater New Bedford (Mass.) Automobile Club; and Charles J. Vogel, secretary-manager of the Springfield, Mass. club.

Mr. Harmon, who is secretary of the Bannock Automobile Club, Worcester, and one of the last club executives in New England, outlined the work which his own organization and other affiliations of the A. A. A. in northern New England are doing to give service to their members and visiting tourists. He pointed out the many things which are being done to improve road conditions, to relieve the motorists of disabilities and burdens to which they have been subjected, and to make the motoring season a complete organization.

In the ordinary sense of the word, Mr. Harmon said, "our motor clubs are not clubs at all. They are great civic agencies, and use institutions which in the motoring age are almost as necessary as full and water."

So strong was the impression which Mr. Harmon made upon the delegates, representing 78 clubs and millions of motorists, that they gave him what amounted to the national association's pledge to recommend the delights of New England touring to the motoring public.

TRIUMPH FOR PONTIAC SIX

The Pontiac Six scored a triumph at Shenandoah, Iowa, when radio station KXNP offered a Pontiac Six coach as a radio prize and received more than 100,000 messages in two days. Of this number, 22,591 were telegrams.

The station announced that every telegram sent in a congratulatory telegram during a special Pontiac Six radio program, would participate in the drawing for a list of prizes. The grand prize was a Pontiac Six. The management of the station had expected to receive between 10,000 and 20,000 messages. That number was passed within the first five hours. Then came the deluge. From all sections of the country poured an increasing flow of telegrams.

An emergency crew of operators was rushed to Shenandoah in automobiles. They worked night and day scribbling endless messages carried by the monotonous drone of tapping keys. It was several days before the last telegram was received and an exhausted corps of clerks announced at station KXNP that more than one-half a million messages, including 800,000 letters and 225,911 telegrams had been received, exceeding by 35-fold the largest preliminary estimate.

Among them were telegrams from every state in the Union, Canada and Mexico, but the winner of the grand prize of the Pontiac Six was R. D. Brown, a retired farmer of Jefferson, Iowa, who immediately went to Shenandoah and received delivery of the car.

So far as it is known, this is really a world's record of telegrams received by a broadcasting station. In addition to the major prize, every person who sent in a message of any kind, received a small prize in recognition of his effort.

LIFE OF TIRES LENGTHENED BY CARE OF RIMS

Timely suggestions for lengthening the lives of motor cars and tires are offered by the Miller tire men of Alton, O. While it is pointed out, many owners will have their cars overhauled at service stations, there are many minor repairs they can make themselves.

Many drivers will put their cars through the winter without realizing that the winter season may do more to lengthen the life of his equipment, declare Miller tire men.

One of the most important and probably the most neglected part of the wheel equipment is the rim. It is the rim which has gone through a winter driving season usually corroded and rusted and in this condition are a menace to the tire equipment. Bent or warped rims are equally as harmful.

Corroded rims should be thoroughly buffed to remove every trace of rust and they should then be painted with aluminum paint. Bent rims should be straightened and if they are badly bent should be replaced with new rims.

Proper rim care adds many miles to the life of tires, when the tires are kept properly inflated. Tucky rim groups and out the bead fabric thereby lessening the life of the bead.

Rim care result from bad rims on a motor car. Premature head failure is the price paid by straight and true if the rims are not in good condition.

Warped rim naturally throw the tire off its proper driving position with every wheel revolution, to the detriment of the tire.

HUB AUTO SALES INCREASE

The upward trend of auto sales in Boston and New England as well as generally throughout the country is further attested by H. H. Paulkner, vice president of the Auburn Automobile Company, who has just returned from a trip through Eastern States which included Massachusetts. Mr. Paulkner, who attended the Boston auto show, saw a big volume of business ahead in New England, New York and Pennsylvania.

"The dealers have had more orders on file for future delivery than at the present," stated Mr. Paulkner. "Everywhere I went I heard the same story of tremendous increase in the popularity of Auburn cars and every dealer reported more prospects and more orders on file for future delivery than at any time since they had been in business."

"While it is true there is a surplus stock in some of the larger centers of some of the big production units, the stock I do not believe are in any instance excessive and will soon be moved when spring deliveries really start."

"As for the Auburn dealers throughout the country is very limited and most of our dealers do not have at the present time sufficient cars in stock to take care of orders they already have on file for delivery during the next 30 days."

Court

With the financial dispute centering about the legacy of Mrs. Ellen M. Sawyer threatening to reach the proportions of a split in the parish, the Cambridge First Parish Church, Unitarian, today stated that the fight is merely a technical matter and that he is anxious to go to court to protect himself.

Mr. Wilson now has the $5,000 known as the "Whitney Fund," which Mrs. Sawyer bequeathed to the church for charitable purposes.

The deacons of the church have filed a bill in equity in Middlesex Probate Court in order to gain possession of the fund.

Mr. Sawyer left the money to the church as the "Whitney Fund" in memory of his brother, Augustus A. Sawyer, who was for more than half a century a deacon and treasurer of the church.

NEW MOTOR SHIP HUB FROM LIVERPOOL

A new motor ship, the Japanese Prince, arrived in Boston today, ten days out from Liverpool. The vessel, built by Harburg, was put in commission in January and had previously made one Atlantic crossing to Baltimore. The Japanese Prince is the first of five vessels of the type to be built in Harburg between New York and Boston and Far East ports. Two passengers came in her, Captain Butler, who left immediately for New York to take over the African Prince, and Ernest James, leaving China clay merchant of Harburg.

RESOURCES

Ability springs from a background of resources. The lawyer meets the issue by drawing on his store of knowledge and experience; the athlete by calling on his muscular reserve.

Industrial institutions produce by the same general principle, their special ability gauged in a measure by the length and breadth of their experience, and the wealth of knowledge experience has bestowed.

Continental Motors, its history coincident with the growth of the automotive industry, its output the largest in point of total units and variety of designs, its equipment the most extensive in its line, amply qualifies under the accepted rules of resources.

But the greatest measure of Continental resources is not to be found by any physical yardstick, but by a correct appreciation of the mastery it maintains over the profound principles of internal combustion engineering.

Only a fraction of the whole truth has ever been told, or is even known. Continental has been a discoverer—a trail blazer. Many have followed and capitalized on Continental ingenuity.

Today Continental possesses the greatest store of knowledge based on experience that exists in the internal combustion engineering world. It is the result of several hundred distinct motor designs and a total factory output of more than 2,750,000 motors.

Among Continental's tangible resources are two gigantic producing plants, a tremendous organization in man power, ideal mechanical equipment, high skill in precision processes, quantity production layout and many other important assets. But the greatest of all Continental resources is Continental ability.

and not worthy of notice, and that the character of Gerald Chapman, I do not make this accusation without deliberate thought. There is no bitterness in my heart. I hold no grudge against anybody, not even against the society which he responsible for what I am. I have thought very seriously about making this accusation.

QUOTES MCKENNA

I have done more thinking within the past year than I have ever done before in my life. I haven't lost faith in the sportsmanship of the American people with whom I have matched wits.

I haven't lost faith in the integrity of the courts, though I have been on the verge of doing so many times since I have been condemned to die for a crime of which I am innocent.
Now I'm still an optimist. I'd be dissatisfied if I lost faith in the integrity of mankind.

It may seem absurd for me to talk about faith and integrity. If this impression takes hold of you, please remember that "a man's philosophy of life," as H. L. McKenna once put it, is the American Mercury. It generally is the largely fortuitous and product and sum product of a hundred and one sorts subjective occurrences, adventures and phenomena that have figured in his life.

"Man in the mass derives his view of the world from what the world does to him. His mind is not a free agent, but one in thrall to a thousand and external happenings. Cope-land's nose changed the history of the world no more than a defective sense frequently changes the history of one's attitude toward the world." It Walt Whitman had owned an extra pair of trousers he would have been a royalist.

ELAMES SOCIETY

If I denounce the courts, it is because of what the courts have done to me. Your dog either hates or loves you. It all depends upon how you treat him. Human beings and animals are alike. Hate breeds hate, love begets love. Now, please follow me. Don't misconstrue my statements. What I'm trying to point out is that I can catch fleeting glimpses of right and wrong even though I'm a criminal.

If I had been capable of catching them when I was an ill, undernourished kid I might have developed into a first class doctor, merchant or a business man of some kind. And I may say that I might have caught these fleeting glimpses of what was right and what was wrong if society had treated me intelligently and humanely when I was a kid, but that's all gone, so let it die. I must get back to my case.

I now direct my attention to the men who have had to do with my conviction of having murdered Paul-timen James Sully of the New Britain police department.

I say to these gentlemen that they have misinterpreted the fundamental issues in my case.

I have documentary evidence to substantiate my claim that certain witnesses did not tell the truth.
I will show that it was utterly impossible for me to have received a fair trial at Hartford. In a word I hope to convince any fair-minded, unprejudiced person that I am being railroaded to judicial murder simply because I happened to be Gerald Chapman. And if I don't convince you that I have been railroaded I will go to my death uncomplainingly.

I want nothing more than a fair deal. I want nothing more than what I am entitled to under the laws of the United States. If I get that I'll be satisfied.

Fight on to Discredit New Chapman Witness

The fight over Gerald Chapman, alleged super-bandid, by the defense to save him from the gallows and by the State of Connecticut to keep him from the gallows was confined today to Bridgewater and the State Farm.

By the prosecution, headed by State's Attorney Alcorn, an endeavor was being made to discredit Charles William Gregory, a new Chapman witness, by seeking proof that Gregory was confined at the State
Farm in Bridgewater last summer.
In Connecticut, Frederick J.
Gronell of New York, chief defense counsel, produced Gregory as having seen Chapman on a train to New York the night of the murder in New Britain, Ct.

TALKED OF CHAPMAN.

The State's attorney, in answer to this move, declared he could prove Gregory to be a former convict and a member of Chapman's gang.

According to Alcorn, the new witness was arrested in Springfield and committed for observation to the Bridgewater State Farm.

At the State Farm today Dr. William T. Hanson declared he had a man as a patient last summer who talked about Gerald Chapman, but whose utterances usually contradicted each other.

The patient was known as James Barnes Rowland, the doctor said, and he claimed to have seen Chapman on a train, a story so similar to the one he has told in Connecticut and the doctor was moved to communicate with the authorities there when he read the assertions of the witness Gregory.

BLIND IN ONE EYE.
Another similarity between "Gregary" and "Rowland" came when the doctor declared Rowland was able to have come from Canada.
State's Attorney Alcorn has asserted that Gregory is a Canadian and has a criminal record.

Dr. Hanson described Rowland as tall and usually in appearance, weighing 170 pounds, and with one eye blinded by a film.

Importance of a New Hat

"If your hat is new, you are well dressed," is an old adage that seems to apply more than ever right now as the world shifts into Spring gear. Keep up with the world—wear a new hat for Easter.

If you plan a new suit, you'll want a new hat—if not, you will particularly need one. This Spring's styles are truly different, colors and weights are lighter and shapes have changed.

To know just "what's what," to be one of the earliest with the latest, read the hat advertisements in the Boston Evening American and the Daily Advertiser.

Love Sufferings of a Beautiful Boston Girl Who Had Heartroom for One Man Only

"Well, are you going to pay heed to my warning?" asked Fay of Sylvia.

SYLVIA STARR, employed in the Boston Public Library, has been engaged to RANDALL PHELPS, Boston real estate man, for a year, when he asks her to free him, because he's fallen in love with her chum, FAY SHIRLEY, Beacon Hill flirt.

Heart-broken, Sylvia gives him up, to the great satisfaction of her Aunt Agnes ("Aunt Agony"), the old maid who reared her. "Aunt Agony" calls Ranny a good-for-nothing, and predicts that he'll never be true to any woman.

Her opinion of him seems to be the correct one, too, when he and Fay suddenly decide not to marry, and Sylvia elopes with him and marries him after all. For shortly after the pair settle down in the tiny Beacon street flat that Sylvia calls The Nest, he begins to stay out nights with his poker-playing cronies, and has a second flirtation with Fay Shirley.

This, however, ends abruptly when Sylvia breaks the news that she's going to have a baby, and Fay announces her engagement to one of her old beaux, EDDIE CARTER, a State street salesman for the firm, MRS. JANE BRACKETT, a divorcee. He wants Sylvia to ask her to the house, and Sylvia invites her for Sunday night supper. Acting on an impulse of pure mischief, she invites Puss March, too, as well as Fay and her new husband, and Lolly and her husband. And finally she decides to invite PETER WILK, who was once in love with her, for an extra man. Ranny is apparently fascinated by Mrs. Brackett, but Peter attaches himself to her that evening.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER XXXI

SYLVIA, when she found that Ranny was not at his office, began to think. The more she thought the more she believed that it was strange. Perhaps there was something in Fay's warning.

Just then the sound of an auto horn came from Beacon street. Sylvia looked out.

"Wait a minute," cried Sylvia to Fay, "and you can carry us into East here square. I want to see Mother Phibbs."

When Sylvia brought Ranny, Jr. down and put him beside Fay in the machine Fay looked at her again.

"Well, are you going to pay heed to my warning?" she said. "It's the best I'll give you. I know what I'm talking about when I say that Ranny and Jane Brackett are running around too much together under the guise of business."

Sylvia couldn't reply beyond a "Wretched, Don't say."

She was silent all the way to the Phelps home. She thanked Fay in a low tone, she got out and went into the house.

Business Wrong Publicity for the Failure of Play: Will Try Again

New York, March 31 (I.N.S.)—Vera, the Countess of Cathart, sails for her home in England today.

Her play, "Ache of Love," has collapsed, and she has lost $20,000 on the venture, she is a little longer for dear old London and her two kiddies; she is rather worried over the illness of her fiancé, Ralph Davis, British playwright and actor, and, besides, she wants to recover her financial losses by writing for the English newspapers on "My Experiences in America."

NOT PERFORMING HITTER

She isn't going away bitter as a result of her experience in the United States—far from it. She bestowed warm praise on American women, calling them brave and intelligent, and she lauded the American press for the stand it took when the immigration authorities at Ellis Island sought to bar her from the country on grounds of "moral turpitude."

"I enjoyed my adventures," she smiled. "At least I kept my sense of humor. I don't know what I could have done without it. I was flattered for so many things I didn't do."

She said her play, "Ache of Love," failed, not because it was a poor play, but because of bad publicity. It was poor policy to announce when the play opened in Washington, that it was the story of her life, when it wasn't, she said.

TIE BATTLERS PARTY

Also, the publicity she got when Earl Carroll gave her "wins about" at the party, she said.

After the play was put on by Carroll in Washington for a week and met with disastrous failure, the countess thought it would go in New York, so she bought it back from Carroll for $20,000 and presented it to Broadway herself. It failed, disastrously.

The countess is going to try again to write a play America will like.

She has written three novels.

"I'm not going to give up," she said, with a flash of determination in her eyes as she prepared to sail today. "I've learned a lot through the failure of my play. I think now what the people want now."

"And," she added with a smile, "I think the immigration men will see me O. K. next time—least my lawyer tells me they will."

'Love Tramp'

Rose Di Angelo, of No. 26 Fleet street, North End, who eloped on foot with Stephen Surdurio, same address.

They had, 50 cents and headed for New York, but found "love tramping" hard work.

The police stopped the car in which they were riding the elopers and Charles Giampino and Anthony Conover of Roxbury.

The elopers explained that they were waiting out of Ireland toward Stamford when the automobile came along and asked them to get in.

The Stamford police communicated with Stephen's father, and he said the boy had been missing since last Saturday, at which time he had borrowed 50 cents from his father.

The elopers will be returned to Boston today.

Pinkham Nott, N. H., March 31.—Arthur T. Walden, seaman "mister," is acclaimed as hero today after he team of huskies made history by climbing Mt. Washington, the first time the ascent has been made by dogs.

Walden had decided to give up the attempt to climb the Washington heights this year because of the fearful wind that threatened to topple him and his huskies down into the valleys below.

But when he started down the mountain side once more the veteran hunter was amazed at the behavior of his huskies.

Perplexed, Walden finally turned the snow-covered summit once more immediately the dogs started delightfully around at the tracks, and yelled their joy.

The round trip consumed just 35 hours, and today the dogs, though exhausted, the calm dignity of huskies, are pattingly proud of their performance under the leadership of the veteran hunter, Chalmers, and his son, Kollas.

They actually got as far as Stamford, Ct., when two young men who had been their good Samaritans of the road were charged with stealing an automobile.

The elopers explained that they were waiting out of Ireland toward Stamford when the automobile came along and asked them to get in.

The Stamford police communicated with Stephen's father, and he said the boy had been missing since last Saturday, at which time he had borrowed 50 cents from his father.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE IS 'TRAITOR,' ANDERSON SAYS

Albany, N. Y., March 31 (I.N.S.)—A bitter attack on the Anti-Saloon League was made by William B. Anderson, its former superintendent, in a letter he sent today to members of the Legislature.

"The Anti-Saloon League has lost its grip and the dry cause as on the defensive in New York," because the management of the league doubled-crossed the Republican dry leadership," Anderson charged.

The League, Anderson charged, had presented passage of the state enforcement bill to elected Governor Smith and in responsible for most of the trouble in which the Republican party finds itself.

He charged that the Anti-Saloon League owes him $45,000.

THE OTHER WORLD

WHO amongst us does not ever dream and wonder over this tremendous and yet unanswered question?

We constantly read of new "proofs," scientific and men of letters are profoundly interested and try to show us tangible evidence that there is life and consciousness beyond the grave.

How one longs to peep behind the veil, to have some revelation, some assurance of rebirth.

All the same, I would war against tampering with the veil that separates it from us.

For some reason, I have been blind from us and those who went there from "spirit guides" and "mediums" are a read in dangerous ways.

Each of us has a life to live here upon earth, and it is hard enough to live it properly, bravely, devoutly, without seeking truths which, half perceived, confuse and baffle us.

I have observed that most of those who have tried to communicate with what is called "beyond" become easily unbalanced, unfit for everyday life. But I still have faith in the mediocrity of impostors and charlatans.

I am sure that with in my own family—a mother who had lost her child. Such longing had led to get in touch with her beloved one that anyone who could give her hope of communication beyond the grave could prey upon her credulity.

Finally she fell under the influence of one who declared her child's spirit had passed into him, and the poor mother literally became the victim of that impostor, and endless demands beset her life through him.

He made her do silly as he liked, influenced her to do things for or against people without reason—always as a message from her child. It was terrible to witness.

I do not for a moment deny that there are persons born psychic, with so in 433, who shift sense, who shift reason for some reason or more in contact with the beyond than others. And one day there may be a revelation to witness.

The world is searching; there is a great wish to know what is beyond and what is not.

For something more, something better. Yet I cannot help crying out a warning against tampering with dark forces. If we do not believe good spirits can reach us from the other side, we must also be on guard against the bad.

Death is but a pause, it helter-skelter according to how we have used this life. But I still have faith in the mediocrity of impostors and charlatans.

'MALT' NOT BEER, SAYS DRY HEAD

Andrews Fights Back at the Storm of Protest From Anti-Saloon Leaders

Washington, March 31 (A.P.)—Sale of the new 373 percent beer tonic was defended today by Assistant Secretary Andrews, in charge of prohibition, as "heartache and reasonable."

Although issuance of a permit for the new preparation has been pronounced a "mistake" by the Anti-Saloon League and assailed by the father of the Volstead Act, General Andrews issued a public statement that it was no product of only one party, it is permissible, but was of no character that by no means had it been issued as a message from her child. It was terrible to witness.

Tunney-Willie Bout Looms as Possibility While Heavyweight King Dailies

Tex Hopeful

New York, March 31 (A.P.)—In spite of the Texas Athletic Commission's threat to depose Jack Dempsey unless he accepts the challenge of Harry Wills, on the left the board, Tex Rickard was believed to be in communication with Dempsey today regarding a title bout with Gene Tunney. The commission has gone on record as opposing any other than a Dempsey-Wills match.

Rickard said today that he would have an "important announcement" to make tomorrow.

By DAVID J. WALSH,
International News Service Sports Editor.

New York, March 31.—Jack Dempsey has been given only six weeks to "fight." This was the word passed along today following yesterday's public threat by James A. Fawcett, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, to drop the question upon the champion's professional head for his neglect of Harry Wills, challenged in this state. In discussing the situation with friends, Fawcett is said to have named May 15 as a suitable date for the "execution."

In boxing circles today there was a well-defined belief that the local commission may be able to make the relief stick because Dempsey's popularity has taken a decided slump. Fawcett will make a play for public sympathy. In no other way, he admitted, can the action of the local commission be made to appear in a serious light. "It will be up to the public to take it or leave it," Fawcett said. "I am banking on the fans of the nation reacting the same as one directed toward the betterment of boxing. Dempsey is not fighting. Many believe he never will fight again. Certainly if he goes through the coming summer without defending his title, there can be no doubt that he has retired for good."

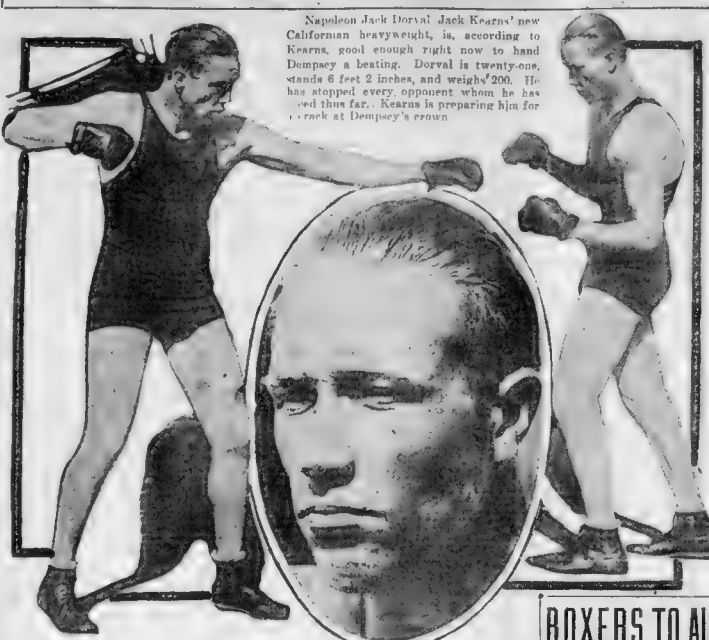

"What isn't the story of a champion the fans want. They want their fighters to fight." Gene Tunney once told us that the only condition under which he would meet Wills would be with the title at stake. Wills probably took the same way about Tunney. I think we should be making a good deal of great national popularity in matching this pair for the title, if Dempsey continues to ignore his obligations.

IS THIS THE MAN WHO'LL SUCCEED DEMPSEY?

He has stopped every opponent whom he has faced thus far. Kearns is preparing him for a crack at Dempsey's crown.

FIGHTS I CAN'T FORGET by TAD America's Greatest Boxing Authority

HOW HOSKEY STOPPED DORMAN IN FIERCE FIGHT THIS is the account of a series of famous fights covered by Tad, the greatest sporting cartoonist and leading authority on pugilism in this country. Tad has covered all the big fights held in this country for the past thirty years. In this review of prominent battles he will tell not alone of championships, but will refresh the memories of many of the "fans" who have witnessed thrilling contests in the smaller clubs.

WILLIE HOSKEY of Albany knocked out Jack Dorman of New York on Sunday, July 13, 1915, at Aenay in nineteen rounds, after one of the most grueling battles ever seen in private.

For gameness and staying power there are probably few boys who claimed with these two and the way they fought, round after round, was enough to stir the blood of anyone who has the least bit of sport in his makeup. This was the so-called battle between the pair. It was for revenge, money and class in the pugilistic sphere.

Their previous meeting, which was held out Harlem way, also on a large, ended in fourteen rounds with Dorman the winner on a knockout. He battered Hoskey to a pulp and in the fourteenth round put him away for good. That was a bloody fight, held at midnight, and much money changed hands that night.

On the afternoon of the Albany bout friends of both boys were on hand with the emerald suit, and at least $1,000 was bet on the result. There were sports from Brooklyn who had heard of the last battle, men from New York and a few from Albany, from Hoskey's town of Albany on the margin. At three o'clock in bunches of threes and fours we walked to the foot of State street and took a launch to the island where, which had been fitted up with hunting and refreshment. It took over an hour to get the four hundred aboard and then the big tug alongside towed us fifteen miles down the river, where the big anchor was dropped and all boats went off.

Inside of fifteen minutes both the principals were stripped and ready for battle. The referee declared it was to be a twenty-round fight, with a side bet of $500. The boys had trained for weeks for the fight, and both showed up well.

Dorman, who was a chunky lad, was a bit shorter than Hoskey and was in his down, having worked harder than ever for what he thought was to have been the battle of his career. Hoskey was also down, but had a better color than he had shown in "cruel" battles and was a confident smile. The gloves were adjusted, the bell tested and then the referee went into it.

After six fierce rounds Hoskey in the seventh almost knocked Dorman out of the ring with a right on the chin, but Jack fell on the ropes, braced himself and met the next crash with an even break, although he was "stepped." The bell was a great help to him, coming as soon as it did. He showed up better in the next few rounds but was very cautious, listening to every word above him. Hoskey slipped to him.

In the tenth, after a fierce cut, Hoskey got over his right and Dorman fell to the floor like a log. He rolled over on his side, pulled himself up on the ropes and just got to his feet as the referee's "11" called. Hoskey rushed at him and Jack, weak as he was, grabbed the "mat thing" he saw and held on like grim death. He caught Hoskey around the waist and hung there until his head cleared. "Run away," yelled Kinner, and Jack did his best to keep out of "range."

It was a bloody affair and rather even until the fifteenth, when the finish looked to be on the cards. Dorman was hammering his man unmercifully on the body when he suddenly pulled away and let fly a right which caught Willie flush on the side. Hoskey fell forward on his face and looked to be a dead one. At the count of five he showed signs of life, at seven on his knees and stood up again, still and covering, doing his best to stick the count out. Dorman faced bravely about the ribs, but the Albany boy stood the snuff well and held out until the bell sounded.

It looked like Dorman's fight now and he was made favorite in more bets which were made. Hoskey was very weak, but his grand condition stood him well. In the sixteenth he came back like an express train. Both walked like demons, first eye staggering, then the other. Dorman was getting the worst of the in-fighting, but fought on gamely. There was give and take this way, both being punished severely, until the nineteenth round.

Hoskey walked out of his corner and met Dorman a few feet from the chair. With all his remaining strength he shot a right into the short ribs, and Jack doubled over from the pain. Willie crossed a right and then a left to the head and Dorman fell as if shot. He never moved after hitting and lay motionless until the count of ten in which he fell. Billy Kinner carried the defeated man to his corner.

BRAVES, IN FINE FORM, PEAK CAMP AT ST. PETE TODAY

TRIBE ON WAY NORTH TOMORROW

Trainer Jim Neary is Optimistic; Says Blizzard Won't Hurt His Men

St. Petersburg, March 30.—The Braves' spring camp will be locked, lured and bolted this evening. The athletes will work out this afternoon. Providence plans the Tribe for a few chapters, and then rest until the trek North starts tomorrow.

This has been a completely successful spring, according to Manager Banny.

Manager Banny, who says "I mean something. The weather hasn't been unkindly hot, and there have been just enough rainy days to let the spring men rest what they needed it here at least a month."

Just one thing about the weather, says Banny, "whether it was a blizzard or not, it was a blizzard."

Bringing a club into Boston the first week in April is hardheaded management, and the players know it. There are some ten good pitching arms in camp right now, but a few days of real frost are likely to crack most of them.

Trainer Jimmy Neary doesn't think there's real cause for fretting. "When an athlete gets in real shape," says Neary, "he is able to stand anything. His body is strong and can resist sickness and weather."

I have been with teams that went North after a couple of weeks in Florida and fell apart when they hit blizzards. But this one is different. All the boys have been here at least a month.

"They haven't been forced to get in shape. They worked along naturally until they were fit. We haven't put any player in any game who wasn't in the best of trim. You all find that that will stand by the one even if we do roll into some early April blizzard."

Jimmy has been rubbing some pine for some twenty years, so he knows whereof he speaks. He has convinced Banny that all will be well. Heave, however, thinks he is a convincing talker.

Banny doesn't read any pennants for himself, but he will be surprised if he doesn't win the division all the way. He has his hopes on the fine flock of pitchers who have collected in years when the ball has been softened up.

While the rabbit union of recent money was in the hands of the winners, it was more a matter of luck than anything else. But with the game counted back to normal, the winners will come back to their own.

INSIDE GOLF
BY CHESTER B. HORTON

Good form in golf must always be variable. You must find your own good form. To observe a tip-top player, then, it is not likely to take you a success. Fully along the highway to good golf, good form is your case remains an enigma. In the meantime, it will resemble the good form of most any other good player, though it may differ greatly in detail. Even so, a great example of the individual form, as much as that he practically carries away an entirely new golf form. He studied it out part by part, and after he got never tampered much with it. It was perhaps the first great gutter to run down extremely the golf course, and as a result of it we have now a whole school of short-kick swing golfers. Pick a fine form model then, and let it work for you.

FITCHBURG FIVE PLAYS FOR NATIONAL CROWN
Chicago, March 31 (U.S.A.)—Southern and mid-Western teams loomed as most formidable contenders for the national championship when Fitchburg played in the intercollegiate basketball tournament was resumed at the University of Chicago today.

Forty teams entered. Twenty played first-round games yesterday, ten being eliminated; the other twenty play today. Games on at a day's card, which will be watched with interest, are Iagrower, Me. vs. Roswell, N. M.; Billings, Mont. vs. Fitchburg, Mass.; and Elkins, W. Va. vs. New York, N. Y.

Drake's Share of Purse Held for Poor Bout
Paris, March 31 (A.P.)—The French Boxing Federation today decided to withhold Harry Drake's share of the purse for his fight with Pauline Evenden a week ago, in which the Spanish champion knocked out the English heavyweight after one minute and twenty-five seconds of fighting. The action was taken because of the miserable showing made by Drake.

The sum withheld will go to equal parts of the war blinded, war orphans and the French boxers' emergency fund.

HARD BATTING DRILL IN ORDER FOR RED SOX

By JACK CONWAY
Birmingham, March 31.—Lee Fohl today ordered another hard batting drill for the Red Sox before the game with Birmingham. The box chief believes that the only serious weakness his outfit has right now is at the platter.

The team is finding well, while it is also displaying great speed. Fohl believes that the recent postponements have retarded the batting of the club.

Ordinarily the pitchers only take the balls up to the plate during batting practice. Lee has instructed his pitchers to pitch just as they would in a real ball game. In this way he believes the batters will derive some real benefit from the practice.

The Fohls arrived here shortly after 7 o'clock this morning and immediately went to their hotel where they will have breakfasters until tomorrow night. It was a pleasant relief after two nights on the Pullman.

At Mobile the Sox ran into a young covey which toppled off a few buildings in the outskirts of the city and caused general havoc. For a period of two hours during the height of the storm, the city was in darkness.

DO NOT Dug up by Bill Grimes

Bill Thomas has come into a hard battle at St. Louis. The members of the Walcott course were under the impression that Thomas was just an ordinary covey. They did not think he was fast enough to play in the exhibition four ball against Tom Haines and Johnnie Farrell when the sandy Hur Country Club was officially opened last season. But they began to see the light after the great showing Thomas made in the P. O. A. championship, and now that he has a victory over The Hag to his credit he has firmly established himself as a veteran.

Joe Stien, who is the professional at the Nassau Country Club during the summer, is fast coming to the front in the golf world. Joe has been made resident professional of the Pandora Country Club in Florida, at which club he acted as caddy master and instructor for the past two winters.

John Bernardi, the former Belle professional, has closed his golf school and is out at the Charles River Country Club getting himself familiar with his new berth.

Johnny Flattery is back from a Florida trip and will report for duty at the Pine Hook Valley Country Club in about a week's time. Johnnie is playing the best game of his career, and is looking forward to the coming N. E. P. G. O. tournament.

Tom McGrath and "Doc" Kendall are battling every day over the Walcott course. The "Doc" has the edge on the Joe Kirkwood of Brighton, who is a glutton for punishment, and insists that he has not lost his article as yet.

George Aubuchon will not report for duty at Arlinton until about the middle of the month. Due to the city and ice there is little opportunity for play on the Arlington Heights links, and Aubuchon will remain at his golf school at Belmont as a couple of weeks.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG
It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets
The secret of keeping young is to feel young—so do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—slimness—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent. of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to set on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by keeping up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 50c and 30c.

RHYMING OPTIMIST

For them do the banners of victory show; not for them are fame's people get such queer ideas about animals and reptiles. Now, that fellow up there wouldn't hurt anything but a fly or any other small insect. As for hurting a man, he'd run as fast as his four legs could carry him before he'd make any attempt to hurt him.

"Then why was he so afraid?" asked Bobby. "Because," answered Bunny, "these fellows down here believe that these lizards can squirt out a poison from the pads of their toes that stings like a needle. Other folks do once believe that their teeth are so sharp that they can bite right through a sheet of steel. But you may believe me when I tell you that's all nonsense."

Just then the lizard cried: "He just told you," said Bunny. "It's a trick!"

Troop Carrying Airships

They May Wake Up This Country Some Day

England knows what the flying machine means. She builds them big enough to help solve the problem of the quick transportation of armies.

Bodies or "fuelages" of fifteen aeroplanes for carrying troops are now being built in England at the Vickers Flying Machine Works. Each of these flying machines will carry two engines of over 450-horsepower, each will carry twenty-three fully equipped soldiers, rifles, ammunition, everything they need, in addition to the pilot.

They will also carry bombs, poisonous gases of various kinds if desired. Extremely interesting and effective machines for warfare at any time.

With Europe building the great fighting airplanes, don't you think it would be a good idea for the United States to wake up and realize the flying machine will be the only weapon worthwhile in war?

Don't you think the Government of this country ought to stop spending its money to enrich builders of battleships and the makers of armor plate and do something to encourage flying machine building and flying machine defense? We are hated by Europe, we are hated by Asia.

We are envied because of our great national wealth, we are sincerely despised because we actually ask them to pay back what they borrowed.

This country is a great temptation to all Europe and Asia, with its wealth and its utterly defenseless condition.

Big men that object to spending money for defense because of the income tax may regret it some day. A few flying machines such as you see in this picture, taking their toll and their explosives and deadly poison gases, might take away from this nation in six weeks more billions of dollars than the tax-gatherers would take in a hundred years.

One Law for All

The State Owes the Same Protection to All School Children Against Smallpox

Members of the Massachusetts Senate will fail in their duty to the public if they flinch from reconsidering their unfavorable action upon the bill to extend to the children in the church and private schools of the State the same protection against smallpox and measles from smallpox which has long been given to the children of the schools supported by public taxes.

This bill has been before the Massachusetts Legislature for the last ten years. It has finally passed the Massachusetts House, and the Governor of Massachusetts will gladly sign it if only the Massachusetts Senate will obey the mandate of public sentiment and ignore the threats of the Anti-Vaccination lobby and send it to his desk for approval.

Of course the Anti-Vaccinationists are against this bill. They are against giving any children in any schools the protection against smallpox, which vaccination provides. They would like to deprive the children of the public schools of the protection the State now gives to them, and year after year they go to Beacon Hill with a petition for the repeal of the law under which this protection is given.

But an overwhelming majority of the people of Massachusetts long ago decided in favor of protection by vaccination against the awful disease of smallpox.

The only question, therefore, before the Massachusetts Senate is whether this protection shall be given only to the children attending public schools, or extended to the children attending church and private schools.

Public sentiment, as we believe, is in favor of treating all school children alike in this vital matter, giving them all, Jew and Gentile, Native-Born and Foreign-Born, the same protection, and the best that can be provided.

It is true that there were few cases of smallpox in Massachusetts last year, but the best medical experts will tell you, as Dr. S. B. Woodward told the members of the Joint Committee on Public Health of the Massachusetts Legislature last month:

"It will not always be thus if we allow the continued increase among the unvaccinated children to continue as it is continuing and will continue under present conditions."

It is because they realize the truth of these urgent words and the timeliness of this earnest warning that presidents of colleges and principals of schools all over Massachusetts, and chambers of commerce and life insurance companies, and last, but by no means least, the more than four thousand physicians who make up the membership of the Massachusetts Medical Society, have united in whole-hearted approval of the bill which the Massachusetts House has passed, and the Senate ought to pass.

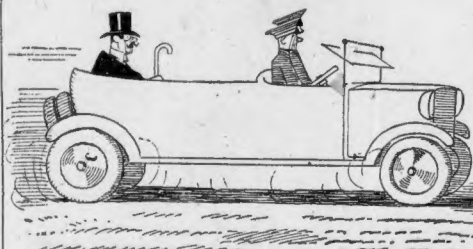

Surly a majority of the members of the Massachusetts Senate can be counted upon to take the side of the people in a matter so vital to their health and happiness, heed the warning of those who have, in the name of justice, the same protection against smallpox for the children attending church and private schools that the State is glad to give children attending the schools supported by public taxes.

WONDERS OF NATURE STUDENT QUEST

By Garrett P. Serviss, Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

PRINCETON University is going to utilize the railroad to carry students, together with instructors, to nature, since nature will not come to them. On the first of July a party of teachers and undergraduates will leave Princeton in a specially designed Pullman car—perhaps it might be called a "college car"—which will make a ten-day journey among the geological wonders of this country.

It is not a pleasure trip, though the pleasure of those who make it cannot but be of a very high and lasting order. Teachers as well as students will be learners on this educational tour, for geology is a science that can with difficulty be studied at all except "in the field."

Must Go to Them

Fortunately the geologist can get among his rocks, as the astronomer would get among his stars if he could. But the geologist who stays at home is worse off than the astronomer, for the latter can at least see the moon though he cannot reach it, but the geologist cannot see the great works of the earth's forces without going where they have been displayed.

Chief among the things that this traveling band of a university is to visit and study are these:

The Hilarian section of Niagara Falls, the Mescal copper mine and smelter at Anaconda, the Columbia River Basin and lava flows, Mt. Rainier (Mt. Tacoma), the Yosemite, Los Angeles oil fields, the Grand Canyon, Flagstaff volcanic fields, the Petrified Forest, the Appalachian coal fields, the Appalachian Province and the Coastal Plain Province.

There are to be lectures and camps on the way and at the stopping places. What a delightful place of the charms of scholarship and learning does this Pullman car filled with eager teachers and students, speeding over the continent and beyond the mountains, present to the imagination. Surely learning has not offered so pleasant an aspect since the days of Abbaiah and the wandering scholars, who, by the way, might have been much happier and more useful if they could have studied geology instead of scholastic philosophy.

When the expedition returns to Princeton in the Fall, the undergraduates who have made the trip will be examined, for in this case at least the educational fee is evidently not to be carried to the point of not even asking questions for fear of infringing "student freedom." This idea could be vastly widened in application. There are many expeditions for investigators and for teachers, but few for learners who must begin with the elements. Let a college boy in the Grand Canyon or the Yosemite, or among the coal fields, or at Niagara, with an instructor at hand, and the stimulus of "the thing itself" before him, would learn more real geology in a week than books could instill in an academic year.

Every great university has around it the means for teaching natural science by going direct to nature. To a certain extent these means are available, but it is a work that might easily be greatly widened. New York city and its astonishing neighbors in Palisades constitute a natural museum of geology, within walking distance of millions.

Great Beauty

On upper Manhattan Island there are still magnificent exposures of gneiss rocks of great beauty and interest. The parks are full of such things, but they are so long as long as there is a city government intelligent enough to preserve them from vandalism and "improvements."

When I see a visitor in Central Park who is inspecting some of its remarkable outcroppings of rock, filled with geological history, it grieves my heart, but how seldom is so pleasing a sight presented.

And now and to reflect that intelligent people are continually passing by, exhibitions that nature has prepared before them, without their having, for lack of a guide or teacher, the slightest suspicion of the wealth of mental pleasure and instruction that they miss.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I KNOW of an amazing place. There are sunny meadows in this place where one may play or dream in the sun.

There, in the open places, friends meet and talk and bask in the sun. The soil in the meadow is rich and deep. It is filled with the roots of growing things. Constantly new seeds fall into the rich earth and they, too, begin to grow, feeding on that bottomless soil which has been deposited by the endless ages, drinking of the clear water which runs through the meadow.

It is an open, generous, hopeful place—that meadow.

But, toward the edge the growth grows tangled and a little rank.

Scattered paths lead off through the trees.

All the paths are very alluring as they start from the meadow, and they all look much alike. But in reality they are very different.

One of the paths is like a trail through fairyland. Loveliness lies there. It is hinged with webs of pearl and silvered with star dust.

Flores spread a net about one's feet and a tangle of laughter runs through it night and day.

One goes into this trail with drained and dusty heart and comes out again with the heart of a little child.

TRAIL HARD TO FIND.

But this trail is very, very hard to find.

Another trail is purple shadowed with great, glossy leaves.

It is always moonlight there—moonlight drenched in a dew of fragrances.

All through the hours strange birds with golden throats sing throatily.

Beneath the trees are beds of moss patterned with white violets.

There is a softness in each breath so that those walking there are amazed with love and beauty.

It is not hard to find this trail. One finds it easily when one is young.

And there are other trails, where one may dream, or play, or sit a little while in peace and rest.

But just beyond the pleasant sunny spaces and the sweet fragrance of gently moving trees, one sometimes stumbles on a terror of stark earth.

A desert, bare and desolate. And when one turns to flee to the meadow, it is gone.

Only the endless, empty, sterile sands are there, a grating dry that arches like a blink, white skull and gaping holes white as thought comes with the sabbath of dead years.

There is no hope or love or laugh left in that awful place.

And one crawls, whining, on those biting sands or lies like carrion, careless of the end.

Yet this is not the thing that is most terrible in this amazing place. Beyond the meadow there is a swamp.

ONE COMES ON IT SUDDENLy.

One comes on it suddenly and with as great surprise as on the desert.

One minute you are laughing in the sun. The next you're gagging with the reek of rotting much and blinded by the slimy darkness of the jungle shade.

What matted plants are these like monstrous fungus growths?

What sort of darkness is this, like a steaming fog wherein things seem to move and wait and crouch and——a darkness dense as ignorance and filled with the lurking threat of nameless cruelty?

And what are those strange beasts, half hidden in the depths that squirm and writhe and sprawl and lift their bloody jaws on groaning knees thrusting blindly at the unseen prey?

The horror chokes you and you cry aloud:

"Is there no exit from this black and belial hole?"

And suddenly the swamp is left behind.

And you are lifted to the mountain tops.

Above the meadow with its sunny grass, its work and play and idle scowling.

Above the trails where dreams and romance lie—

Above the bleached, gray desert of despair—

And the foul swamp of ignorance and terror cruelty.

Up, up above the clouds that bind the earth—beyond all little sounds and petty strife.

To that far place where for a moment you are one with God—

This mountain, too, is found in that amazing place.

"Where is that beautiful and awful place?"

THEY KNOW ONLY ONE PLACE.

FINDS MUSSOLINI JUST TALKING

By DR. FRANK CRANE

WHEN Premier Mussolini rattled his sabre and clenchd his fist at Germany recently it was entirely for home consumption.

One of the most effective ways of unifying a country or quelling incipient revolution within it is for the leader of the country to bring on a dispute with some other nation. In war or in the preparation for war all parties sink their differences and rally around their national leaders.

It is natural that there should be considerable dissatisfaction seething underneath Mussolini's iron rule. The best way to get rid of it is to cry out that the country is in peril. And we should remember that the ink is hardly dry on Mussolini's signature to the Locarno Pact in which he agreed that all disputes between nations should be settled by arbitration, and that all signatories should rally to the support of the attacked nation.

It should be remembered also that it is not the bravery of the soldiers nor the glory of a country which can bring success nowadays in war, but that martial success is based upon just one thing, which is money. The nation with the most resources will eventually conquer.

Also what defeated Germany was not the lack of prowess among her fighters; it was the almost universal alliance against her. If any European country were precipitately to make war upon another nation she would find all other countries allied against her. If all nations unite against a war-making people it is the best assurance of the continuance of peace.

The Italians are easily excitable and peculiarly subject to oratory. They should not forget, however, that one nation cannot stand against universal public sentiment and that courtesy and forbearance are as necessary between nations as between individuals.

A nation cannot go rampaging about and asserting its rights without getting into plenty of trouble. Neither can a nation.

One of the most necessary elements in a nation is a capacity for self-control.

The day is past when a Napoleon can arise and be successful. The difficulty is that such a man will find public sentiment solidly united against him. Up to a certain point the methods of Mussolini and the Fascists may be good enough, but beyond that point they are dangerous.

IF YOU ARE SENSITIVE SHUN LIMELIGHT

Just because you have some virtues you think you ought to pass muster pretty well among those who know you.

You may have a desire to run for public office. If you are sensitive, don't do it. There may be things in your life which you don't want known.

They are sure to come to the surface. Just because you have been a good citizen and a good fellow generally in the past several years will not save you from your enemies.

They will dig into your past, with many willing helpers, and unearth every thing you have done; and they will publish it one way or another.

Naturally they'll forget to speak of your good qualities and your good deeds.

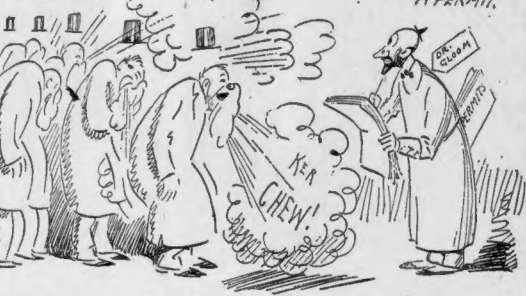

They will forget to mention the matter of which you are proud. Rather than subject yourself to the fine tooth process by which your life will be held up for inspection, you had better stay in your present private job.

Thick hides are needed for politics.
